Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-5,7,8,10-13,14,16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Pfefferle et al. (6,730,091).

With respect to the above claims, Pfefferle et al disclose a system comprising a bone anchor (9), as best seen in FIGS.3A-H, having a head (90) and a distal portion (93) having the ability to engage a bone, the head is threadless; as best seen in FIG.3E; the system further comprising a plate (1) having at least one hole (4) including a plurality of concentric annular bores as best seen in FIGS.1-14, e.g. the valleys (80) of the threads along a longitudinal axis of the hole. The bores engages the head of the bone anchor; as best seen in FIGS.2-12. the concentric annular bores including a first bore with first diameter and a second bore with a second diameter different from the first diameter; as best seen in FIG.4C, since the hole is tapered. The peak of the threads will form a stepped-shaped inner wall and they are aligned in a frusta-conical shape; as best seen in FIGS 7B-C. A peak plane intersects the axis of the hole or oriented perpendicular to the axis or parallel to the axis; as best seen in FIGS.2-12.

Response to Amendment

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-3,5,7,8,10-13 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
